a person with an inflammatory autoimmune disease is probably aware of the condition and is under treatment the paradox, as they all know, is that religious freedom, if it ever takes hold, might harm the christian church in two ways