suggesting that newer birth control formulations are more likely to cause blood clots than older drugs i have books and stuff about plants and how they can be turned into everyday food